

Modern Women Theologians, Biblical Scholars, and Preachers: An Annotated Directory

Prepared by Meghan Bishop

How to read the directory:

- Name - 155 distinct women are included and ordered alphabetically by last name
- Primary discipline - identifies the person's principal scholarly or ministry field.
- Specialties - name focus area(s) of scholarship
- Tradition/context - broad labels, intended to be non-exclusive descriptors based on how the person self identifies or their institutional and/or ecclesial affiliations
 - "Evangelical" broadly-defined is named when it is reasonably supportable, though the lines can be admittedly blurry

Notes of interest:

- Some women span multiple areas (e.g., theology and homiletics, etc.).
- This list is of modern women theologians, the majority of whom are alive today
- Because traditions and appointments can change, this is best treated as a working research directory rather than a fossilized document.
- This document is not conclusive; there are many women missing and should be added.
